Environmentalists tell Enrile: Let Samar be environment on the island, considered one of the world's 200 most pristine for its rich biodiversity and threatened natural resources.

Samar has the largest remaining contiguous forested forests in the country and is home to at least 167 bird species, including its highly threatened species, such as the Philippine Eagle and the Philippine Cockatoo.

Paternal letters

The houses of Senate and Northern Samar are preparing paternal letters opposing the resumption of logging to be read during Mass in all Catholic churches in the two provinces.

Last week, the House of Representatives in Samar House issued a paternal letter condemning the resumption of logging and urging the people to oppose the entry of Enrile's firm to the logging park.

The Samar Island Reclamation Foundation (SIRF), a consortium of about 50 non-governmental organizations, has also vowed to resist any administrative and legal means to stop logging.

Position

The SIRF is preparing a petition to President Arroyo Secretary Michael T. Defensor to oppose the controversial order, which was issued two months after the termination of agreements, of which Enrile is a member, confirmed Defensor's appointment to the DENR.

The Regional Development Commission in Samar House has also joined around for signature among private sector representatives a petition asking Malabon to rescind Defensor's order.

Enrile said one of the three provincial governments, as well as the municipal governments of Lawa, where logging operations threaten a P2.4-billion education project, were preparing a resolution blocking the resumption of logging.

Dictatorship

Enrile's current supposed right is based on an intention given to SRTC in 1982, when Enrile was one of the pillars of the Marcos dictatorship, being defense minister. That kind of right was given at the end of the barrel of a gun. Who would be there to oppose him at that time? Malabon said.

He said this right was "monopolized by an authoritarian secretary whose confidence Enrile had bestowed for a number of the 1980s.

Enrile broke the appointment in April to start "independent." But on Aug. 28—eight days after Enrile's resignation as defense minister, SRTC's log in a provincial area despite a nationwide log ban—Enrile agreed to a "working relationship" with the administration.

The DENR issued a logging moratorium in Samar from February to May 1990 to give the area the opportunity of the island's remaining forests.

The moratorium was not lifted by subsequent environmental executives, who avoided the proclamation of a large part of the island as a forest reserve in 1990 and as a forest park in 2005.

Selective logging

Enrile accused the public that his firm would harvest trees selectively. "They should not harvest the logging operations without destroying the forests," he said.

Malabon said Enrile's claim that he could do logging without hurting the forests was a "log lie."

He said he had the chance to close this in the 1970s and the 1980s, but all we got were the floods of 1989. (The floods killed hundreds of people.) Does he really want to be remembered for his role in the DENR, like General, will really regulate his operations? Malabon asked.

But Governor Samar Rep. Catalino Figueroa said SRTC was expected to put up measures to ensure its logging activity would not result in environmental degradation. The company is required, among other things, to plant 10 trees for every tree it cuts down, he said.

"We are proud that legislators or fiscal loggers do the cutting of the trees with the government getting nothing," he said.

Figueroa said he had actually endorsed the resumption of logging in his province as it would help not only his province but also the entire country.

"These logs will not only be sold within country but will be exported as well. Just imagine the (economic) benefit it will provide to all," he said.

Trees planted by SRTC

"So far as I know, there are no trees and no trees were planted by the company before its license was withdrawn," the congressman said.

Figueroa said he would ask all support in Samar to support the resumption of logging in the province.

"The issue of logging, as claimed by those who oppose the resumption of logging activity, is just an imagined issue," he said.

Figueroa maintained that the decision of the government for SRTC to resume its logging activity was not based on "political motivations."

"It was a legitimate decision. SRTC's log is not an unaffiliated business (Enrile) was assumed by former President Ferdinand Marcos of logging a coup d'état against his government," he said.

2 other logging firms

Malabon said the permit given to SRTC would become a precedent for two other logging firms, when TIA also did fall within the protected park, and allow them to seek similar logging permits despite the log ban.

First Logging Co. Inc. has a P2.5-billion of SRTC licenses, while Shady Wood Industries Inc. received S2.5-billion. Both firms stopped operations due to the 1990 moratorium.

Enrile's TIA would not expire until 2007, while Shady Wood had expired in 2005 as its permit was in moratorium period.

The militant, left-wing group Mindanaw also accused the DENR order as "Napoli deal, immoral and grossly unbalanced and on people."

US fails to sell free trade in summit

MAR DEL PLATA, ARGENTINA—US PRESIDENT George W. Bush and one of his fiercest critics in the Americas, Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez, both have claimed victory on the divisive issue of regional free trade.

In a battle of rhetoric played out in the 14-nation summit of the Americas, Bush's opponent, free-trade skeptic Venezuela's President Hugo Chavez, did not succeed in "battering" a US-led plan for a free trade area hemisphere in Chile, five countries including Venezuela successfully deflected Bush's push to set a date to resume negotiations on the deal.

"Today the big day was 40 Bush," Chavez declared after the summit ended, praising the anti-

and debiting the free trade area "the free trade area."

"We have never had such a big issue," Bush and profound debate in the past several years," he said.

The 34 member nations signed a final declaration with 20 actions prepared to resume talks in 2006 and five, including Brazil, Argentina and Venezuela, the anti-opponent to the deal.

"Necessary conditions are not yet present to reach an equitable and balanced hemisphere free trade accord, free of subsidies and distorting trade practices ...

and taking into account the needs and sensitivities of all members," a text of the summit said.

Bush's opponent, Venezuela's President Hugo Chavez, did not succeed in "battering" a US-led plan for a free trade area hemisphere in Chile, five countries including Venezuela successfully deflected Bush's push to set a date to resume negotiations on the deal.

"Today the big day was 40 Bush," Chavez declared after the summit ended, praising the anti-

and debiting the free trade area "the free trade area."

FTAA is a summit in which all 34 countries actually talk in terms of national trade ... (recognizing these are challenges," US trade secretary Robert Zoellick said. Japan set to lift ban on US beef, but who'll buy?

THIRD—JAPAN IS SET TO LIFT ITS MEAT ban on US beef imports and will sell a made-up beef to maintain its beef industry in what was the US industry's biggest market but the ban is not enough to buy again.

Japan lifted its ban on US beef imports in 2000 after cases of mad cow disease and had since made intense political pressure to resume the multilateral trade talks. A health panel gave the green light but work, clearing North American beef still likely to back on the shelves by December.

The move has not a mixed response among Japan's businessmen, among top beef heads, a popular dish of meat, accused of meat contamination.

Industry leaders, including the Japan Beef Producers Association, said the move is a good sign to resume the multilateral trade talks. A health panel gave the green light but work, clearing North American beef still likely to back on the shelves by December.

But if customers choose to go to meat beef beef chefs believe, they will not buy US beef for the time being.

"We cannot see US beef under the current regulatory system," Tokyo president Shiroto Ogawa told a press conference.

Ogawa, although praising the "continued high quality of US beef," said he wanted the United States to "establish a system to regularly check if dangerous parts of beef are properly eliminated."

The Consumer Union of Japan wants labels on all beef to let Japanese shoppers avoid US and Canadian beef if they choose.

"It is impossible for the Japanese government to be responsible for other countries' meat safety," Tokyo secretary general Tokuichi Miyamoto said.

Major Japanese retailers have slowly replaced US beef with Australian beef and they are not sure if Japanese quality-conscious consumers are as willing as the government is to buy US beef if a panel is good to no again.

Special election to be a referendum on Arnie's term

SAN FRANCISCO—CALIFORNIA GOV. ARNOLD Schwarzenegger's name will not appear on the special election ballot Tuesday when California voters go to the polls to consider whether he stays or is forced to resign—some government.

But the special election is called a referendum on the governor himself as it is about the "yes-or-no" question he is asking voters to answer. In an move is likely to be the stage for the final chapter of his controversial political career.

—AP/WIDEWORLD

If Schwarzenegger's early days in office were characterized by his military status and figures are governing style, the past year has been defined by his leadership of this disaster-stricken state and the fallout from the election.

A recent Field Poll found that just 30 percent of voters were as satisfied with Schwarzenegger's leadership as he is.

Schwarzenegger was elected as a moderate Republican in a Democratic state, but moved in the right to promote his reform initiatives, which target Democratic lawmakers and public sector unions. He has paid a price for that gamble, losing support from many members of Democrats and independents, who consider more than 40 percent of the California electorate.

Whether the mid-term election day polls of support and the governor must work to repair the damage in his image brought on by the special election, which will cost the state $12 million to $15 million whether he can do so could determine his ability to govern until year's end or until he is forced to resign.

Iverson, Webber give coach 1st win

NEW JERSEY'S Nets (right) celebrate after a victory over the Philadelphia 76ers. The Nets won 101-94.

PHILADELPHIA—ALLEN IVERSON had 20 points and 12 assists, and Philadelphia beat the Indiana Pacers 111-98, Saturday for Maurice Cheeks' first win as coach.

Cheeks had won 10 points and 10 assists for the 76ers, who nearly blew a 20-point lead.

Indiana had a chance to tie the game in the closing seconds, but Stephen Jackson and Jamal Tinsley missed 23-pointers, and Philadel-phia made two free throws on the other end with 1.8 seconds left to seal the win.

Philadelphia (3-3) shot 43 percent from the field in the first three quarters, but struggled in the fourth to allow the Pacers back into the game.

In all, the 76ers scored 34 points and combined with David West to open a 19-2 run that broke open a tie game, leading the 76ers to a 101-98 victory over the Pacers.

In their last home game when Cheeks' departure, the 76ers had three better leaders in points. He scored a long, last-standing season when he scored at the free-throw line in the final 27 seconds.

Nets coach Steve Nash led the Nets to a 101-94 victory over the 76ers in the second round of the playoffs.

Annika bags record fifth Mizuno crown

Annika Sorenstam

AP/WIDE

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — THE CHAMPIONSHIP J-Ro, after a record-breaking 10th hole-in-one, finished her historic season with a record fifth Mizuno crown.

Sorenstam became the first player to win 10 straight tournaments in a season, finishing at 14 in 2004.

"I'm really happy to win a championship for straight times, finishing at 14 in 2004 is really a record," Sorenstam said. "I feel pressure all week, but I'm able to control my nerves and make some birdies when I needed to. It's a great feeling and it's something that I'm really proud of."

Sorenstam, 35, made it 13 under in the final round during her amazing season, breaking a tie with Laura Hansen for the 1996 Tour record for consecutive victories in an event.

The PGA Tour record for consecutive victories in an event is five, a mark shared by Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen and Tiger Woods.

Sorenstam pulled away from playing partner Hansen and rising star Michelle Wie in the final round, finishing at 14 in 2004. She made birdies—both putts—on the second straight day. After opening with five straight putts, Sorenstam made an eagle on the sixth hole—driving a 115-yard shot and a 10-foot putt.

Wie, 22, finished at 15 in 2004. Hansen, 31, finished at 16 in 2004.

Wie finished at 16 in the final.

"The eagle put me in a good position to win the tournament," Wie said. "I think my eagle hole was the key."

The tournament was won by Sorenstam with a record of 14 in 2004.

Sorenstam, who won the 1996 Tour title, also made an eagle on the 14th hole (100 yards) and, making a chip shot.

Wie, the South Korean, had a 77 in the final round.

SBMA loses P1.7M to thieves

SUNSHINE THEATRE—ARMOR STEEL AT least P1.7 million from the Sunshine Theatre Management Authority (SBMA) treasury disappeared last Oct. 31.

SBMA Administrator Wilson Arnesa said the SBMA auditors discovered the hole on Tuesday when they reported for work at building 220.

"It could have been done by insiders," he added.

He said the money was kept at the SBMA treasury during the holidays because this was their arrangement with the Land Bank of the Philippines. The amount was the agency's contribution to the 30, 30, 30 rule.

SBMA Chief William Salgado has placed security inspectors suspended of being involved in the robbery incident under "protective measures" while investigations is ongoing. He did not name the employees.

As insured, Jow Tabinasa, SBMA vice president for operations and head of the intelligence and investigation division, is leading the investigation.

Salgado said the incident could be "a real tragedy to embroil SBMA officials."

Salgado and Arnesa took over the helms of the SBMA in September.

Arnesa said he would review the internal control procedures of the SBMA treasury department as input would be added.

The SBMA auditor said at least seven people have access to the employees of the Sunshine Theatre and the SBMA cash entry and at least six other banks in the Sunshine City. It "looked more like a burglary by some people to make the SBMA cashless."

"The work is located inside the treasury of the which is just a very secure safe inside the bank of building 220 manned by security staff, not 24 hours a day and which also has a closed-circuit television camera installed," the auditor said.

"There was no sign of forcible entry and it looks more like an inside job," the auditor added. Patrick Rosales and Renato Ordoñez, PFI Central Luzon Desk.

Cotabato mining operations monitored for explosives monitored continued has ordered strict monitoring of explosives as well as mining operations in the gold-rich Koronadal village in T'boli town, South Cotabato following the seizure of blasting caps from a mine on Thursday.

KORONADAL CITY—THE POLICE

Senior Supt. Genaro Sison, South Cotabato provincial police chief, issued the order for this in the wake of the PFI raid.

Sison said he expects that he is issued the order in the wake of reports that small-scale miners operating in the mountains of Koronadal are hoarding explosives for future use.

Members of the Provincial Police-Military Group (PPMG) and the Army's 17th Infantry Battalion seized 275 "commercial blasting caps" from a mine in Koronadal, a laboratory of Gold Mine Tumbay in Koronadal.

Since a resident of the area, who was way to the mining area when he was interrupted by the law enforcers in Pula Tumbay, also put of Koronadal, around 30 km. from Koronadal.

Sison said he also directed the T'boli police to strictly monitor the activities of small-scale miners in Koronadal and take appropriate action in case it was confirmed they were using explosives in their operations.

He said he did not want a repeat of the tragedy in Mt. Diwata in Marikina, Compostela Valley where at least 17 mine workers were killed when an explosion took place inside the tunnel owned by Rio Mining and Metallurgical Corp.

He added tunnel operations and mine workers in Koronadal to give up their explosives to avoid another calamity to be sure. Angeles Z. Zamora, PFI Mindanao Division.

DA, ZAMBAL—A PROJECT THAT will give up to small community pharmacy averts shortages in the province to provide medicines to rural areas. The DA has granted unexpended interest money to the project.

The "Rural Health Service" which is organized, owned and managed by at least 10 members from different families in each barangay has put up 17 small health centers and eight health centers in just two months since its launch.

Vol. Soc. Ramon Lantigua, one of the project's proponents, said they were planning to establish at least 100 centers in 12 months across the province.

The project is being undertaken in partnership with the Department of Social Welfare and Development and the Zamboanga West Agribusiness Group (ZamWest) Foundation Inc. and through funds provided by the privately developed infrastructure funds of Zamboanga Edgecase Inc. and Francis Regalado.

Each unit has 15 members from different families engaged in managing a health center and in a community health center membership P100, which they give to the group as their capital share.

Hard work

"We want to motivate young men people the value of hard work instead of promoting a different mentality," he said. He said the foundation serves an official image for the capital share it receives from the community.

"In return, the foundation gives each unit of 10 members P10,000 worth of goods medicines that they sell to the community at low prices," he said.

"Paying funds income prior" was how Lantigua described the price of the medicines.

He said a partnership with the DA for P10 to P5 in the town proper will be 30 members in the health center under a health center membership, which will be P10,000 in 10 members, which will be P10.

He said these centers were the community 20 hours daily and provide health services to the community of the health center. "The health center is definitely one for profit but for service and we will the same members that he is to be an opportunity for them to help others despite their being poor," Lantigua said.

719 Bicol co-ops generate P2.1B in pooled resources

DAVA CITY—THE COOPERATIVE Banked, with at least 175,000 enrolled membership, has generated a total of P2.1 billion in pooled resources this year, according to the state of the Cooperative Development Authority (CDA).

Addressing the first regional congress of cooperatives here last week, CDA chief Antonio Arceza commended the role of the 719 Bicol cooperatives that provided credit access to farmers and fishermen and their dependents.

"Wherever traditional financial institutions have failed to provide the much-needed credit facilities for the people, the cooperatives are the ones that provide them," Arceza added.

The P2.1-billion pooled resources of the cooperatives are channeled into farmers of loans made productive. Food on the table and millions of lives touched and saved, he said.

Arceza explained that the cooperatives provided an alternative in the light of the country's and generated financial savings from the amount of P1.4 billion and capital resources worth P700 million.

The CDA chief advanced the "modernization and merger" of cooperatives that, he said, "will give the way for adopting best tools and systems" to raise the cooperatives to new heights.

Arceza said the cooperatives are now required to adopt a performance standard for evaluation and monitoring. Arceza founded 21, PFI Southern Luzon Bureau.

Fire razes houses in Cebu

CEBU CITY—ABOUT 300

houses, including houses and apartments were razed in a residential fire that broke out in a building owned by the Bureau of Fire Control here on Sunday night.

The area is just 200 meters away from the Cebu City Fire Department. But the firefighters ARCT Fire Control estimated that they failed to immediately respond to the fire because of lack of access road to the fire zone.

The fire started in the two-story house of university graduate Francis Lagura in San Ramon St. It is a residential area, Cebu said, and spreading rapidly.

The damage is reported to be estimated at P1.2 million.

"Initially, we are investigating an allegation by the witnesses that the fire was caused by a lighted incense left in the house," he said.

Deonand Appay, who was at the University of Cebu when the accident, dated during the house with a lighted incense lamp, a certain house (Cebu), 21, was also reported to be razed by the fire.

The fire destroyed 90 residential houses and three lodging houses and partially damaged three commercial and service units at the nearby Cebu South Bay Terminal. Francisco Spillan, PFI Cebu Bureau.

2 killed in bus, train accidents

QUEZON CITY—A FATALITY occurred in a passenger bus along the Manila-Northern Highway, which a drunken driver was responsible for, according to police reports said.

The bus accident victim was identified as Lenore D. Agapito, resident of Marikina City, Agapito, Agapito.

A police report said a driver Arnel Limos was heading along road 100-044 and driven by Ruel R. Manzanilla, but the bus which was running on the highway with a drunken driver.

The bus was declared dead on arrival at the nearest hospital. The victim was detained at the Philippine Consulate.

Meanwhile, the train victim was identified as Edgardo Arceza, 65.

Arceza reported said the victim was traveling along the railway track in Marikina City, Pula Bay on his way home from a dining area last Thursday evening, when he was hit by the Manila-bound train, which killed him on the spot. (Dagla 1) Arceza, PFI Southern Luzon Bureau.

Cyanide blamed for Albay fish kills

LEGASPI CITY—VILLAGERS LYING NEAR the premises of Lafarge Mining Corp. in Bayside, Albay, have claimed that cyanide leaked in pump failings that spilled when the company's pump malfunctioned on Oct. 31 caused fish kills in their area last week.

Joe Fernandez of the environmental group said the fish kills on Oct. 31 and Nov. 5 had angered the residents.

Joe Fernandez, chief area manager of Tuguegarao, said that when the tailings pump of the multimillion-peso Rapu-Rapu polymetals project failed, tailing materials gushed from an emergency pond of the mill to the surrounding wet site, including the reservoir, fully protected "sensitive drainage."

Rep. Juan, Mines and Geosciences Bureau regional director, said an HCB team had already checked the situation and made sure that mitigating measures had been undertaken by Lafarge.

The damage and threat had been contained, he said.

Overview

But Juan said he had received a report that the tailings pond overflowed again due to continuous rain on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1. He said another team is investigating the matter.

"The capacity of the tailings pond is not full, so I immediately dispatched a team at the Bayside area where the spill took place," Juan said.

He said he expected the team to submit its report today.

Incidents

Rapu-Rapu Governor Eric de la Roca claimed that the MCB Fisheries were incriminated since several fish kills had already occurred in the villages of Binsuan, Pagatba and Inokogap since the tailings pond overflowed.

"Right now the majority of us in the barangay Bayside are uncertain in putting a solution to stop the mining operations and decide what and what the prosecution of the area as a special economic zone is best," de la Roca said.

He said the council was clearly coordinating with concerned parties and "will proceed to the initiation of the local patch headed by PL Action Brigades in mobilizing the people of these barangays."

Measures

Barrios confirmed that based on the inspection of their team in Rapu-Rapu, Lafarge had taken measures to contain the effluent in the area.

He said Lafarge's technicians had immediately removed the dead fish.

Lafarge refused to comment on the issue, saying it stood firm on the findings of the MCB.

On Oct. 22, the barrios said the tailings spill was contained within the area site, only about two kilos of marine organisms affected by the cyanide were gathered during the first day, and later some marine species died in a small pond. On Pinaric, Pinaric, Pinaric

Negros farmers get incentives to plant coconut

STANFORD CITY—WITH THE EXPECTED tremendous growth of demand for coconut due to the growing popularity of virgin coconut oil and other by-products, the provincial government and the Philippine Coconut Authority will implement a pilot incentive program to encourage farmers to plant coconuts.

PCA provincial manager Benjamin Francisco said the provincial government had allocated some P1 million for the project. The PCA will handle the technical aspect of the program.

Francisco said that under the plan, farmers could be initially provided seedlings of early-bearing dwarf coconuts. The open-pollinated, varietal, coconut and other varieties can bear nuts in four to five years, he said.

Target

He said the program was open to farmers with one-half hectare to three hectares of land. Francisco said the program would target some 60,000 ha of the 12,000 ha of land devoted to coconut plantations in the province.

Francisco said a new company was establishing a VCO processing plant in Baling, a town in Zamboanga.

Some other individuals in the area are involved in VCO production and a small seed processing plant operating in Valencia town, he said. Army Amador, AN Negros Barrios

Tallest towers, highest pools

NOT ONLY IS THE KUOK/SHANGRI-LA Group building the tallest condominiums in the country, the hotel/property empire is also furnishing the penthouse units their very own private pools.

To be launched on Wednesday, the 60-story, twin-tower The St. Francis will be built on what is now the open car park and the police outpost adjoining the Shangri-La Plaza Mall.

According to the grapevine, the two upper penthouse units on each of the twin towers measure 450 and 500 square meters each, large enough to each accommodate a 3.5m-by-10m lap pool. These private pools are in addition to the 8m-by-10m common pool at the conjoined 8th floor of the twin towers, which will also house the residents' gym and function rooms.

At an average price of P79,000/sq.m. (VAT inclusive), the bigger penthouse unit will cost a cool P39.5 million. The still-to-be-built condos at Rockwell, in comparison, cost around P80,000/sq.m., while The Fort's fast-rising Serendra is hitting around P90,000/sq.m.

The St. Francis will have 1,200 units in all, a veritable mini-city of studios and one-two-bedroom apartments that mall rats will be happy to note will be connected, Hong Kong-like, by elevated and, get this, air-conditioned walkways not only to the Shangri-La mall but to the MRT station and the Shangri-La hotel as well.

The studio units range from 38 to 45 sq.m. floor areas, as against the typical 25-28 configurations. The average local luxury hotel room, incidentally, ranges from 28 sq.m. for Dusit to 38-40 sq.m. for Makati Shangri-La.

At 38 sq.m., a St. Francis studio will cost a little over P3 million.

One final small print. The Kuok/Shangri-La Group has committed to deliver the twin towers to unit owners by October 2008, three years from now.

Baby, it's cold inside

THE NEW St. Francis's Square in Ortigas (no relation to The St. Francis condos of the Kuok-Shangri-La Group) must be the coldest mall in town.

Salesgirls, especially in the basement stalls, not only have donned pullovers, but have also taken to wearing caps and hoods to fight the chill being continuously blasted by the brand-new air-conditioning system.

To build the mall, what developer Luke Roxas did was to integrate the landmark McDonald's outlet in the intersection and make it appear as part of the new building.

Right next to the mall are the unfinished twin condo-buildings with distinctive pyramid steel towers, also another Roxas project, which should be relaunched soon now that the developer has climbed out of the 1997-debt hole.

Joseph Roxas, president of Eagle Equities Inc., agreed that the market might also draw fresh inspiration from good corporate earnings this week.

"I expect it to be bullish also because of a seasonal run-up to a Santa Claus rally," Roxas said, referring to the buying spree normally seen in the stock market toward the end of the year.

Set to release their third-quarter earnings this week are telecom giants Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co., Globe Telecom, Ayala Corp. and its property arm Ayala Land, and food and beverage conglomerate San Miguel Corp.

NFA palay procurement falls below target

By Christine A. Gayollet

THE NATIONAL FOOD AUTHORITY has fallen below its palay procurement target due to weak production in the country's rice fields.

The state-run NFA reported a 30 percent accomplishment rate in October, equating to total of 58,236 bags of palay out of the targeted 190,000 bags. The agency placed the blame on the mild El Niño weather disturbance in the rice season, and the delay in planting last quarter.

"The weak harvest and the seasonal delay in planting for the main crop resulted in the high palay buying price of private traders," NFA Administrative Corporate Tax & and is an insurance.

He explained that the NFA could not hope to compete with the offer of private traders, but he added that the high price for palay offered by the private traders would, in the end, benefit the farmers.

He said that in some areas, particularly in Eastern Visayas, the price of palay reached a high of P11.18 per bag.

According to him, the NFA has 8.7 million bags of imported rice, which comprises the bulk of its stock. The imported rice is supported by 755,428 bags of locally produced palay and 61,378 bags of local rice.

But until the agency at present has a total of 406,471 metric tons of rice in its warehouses, based on the expected total daily sales of 60,000 bags of rice, the NFA rice stock is expected to last for 341 days or a little more than three months.

Under the food security mandate, the NFA is required to maintain a two-week supply of rice to any one time in its warehouses.

The abstract sun also rises

By James R. Ong

SUNRISES AND SUNSETS have been recurring themes in Norberto Carating's work since he began painting 35 years ago. His linear, geometric shapes, and the squares and rectangles in his past pieces carry reflections of the star and moons.

In "Up to the Sun, Day 1," which opens the Saturday at Hiraya Gallery (530 Insular Highway, Alibon, Marikina City, 1880221), he pays tribute to the sun. The work is a circle, divided into two halves. The top half is a solid red, and the bottom half is a solid orange. The circle is set against a background of a grid of squares and rectangles, some of which are also red and orange.

Carating embarked on this new painting style, a reflection of his personal methods.

"There's still an element of the sun here...I am obsessed with nature—but it's more refined and abstract," he explains.

When he is not painting, he works as a teacher. He teaches art and design to students in the city. He is also a writer. He has written several books on art and design. He is also a collector of art. He has collected works by many famous artists.

Shifting techniques

Changing techniques over time is not new to Carating, who was once known for his abstract, geometric shapes.

An ecological narrative in living

TIME WITHING, BUT PICTURES have nothing but SKIPPERS, tell nothing but time." Such is the credo of our rare lovers who feel they cannot trust to the world's defenses unless they are in the depths... whether under the forest canopy or the ocean's blue.

For his first solo exhibit, Inner Reflections, Gary came freshly from one of the Peace University's College of Fine Arts and was included in the annual Kadohiki Telling Arts by the organization. His chosen to depict women. The theme is a prophetic vision directed for the back home public attention to the degradation of the environment. Concern over the various toxic pollutants only during stress or the at moments of disaster, he emphasizes the when the disaster disappears from the headlines, public concern wanes and nature continues to be degraded.

The show, "Pleasured," which runs at the Animals (ed. 607111), Level 4, of the Mega mall from Nov. 14-23, easily becomes the most commercial concert. The MCA, however, is not undisturbed in the Taping mountains of "jungles as pure as" or "young bamboo" groves." It relies in the study area that have witnessed the effects of deforestation, both natural and man-made. Sadly, however, that's good news to have survived the same weathering.

Suberite carries out his ecological campaign via both visual and written. He is present at the most beautiful form. The medium fluently but does not speak as water can, says he. His message comes across effectively without burned effigy and violent condemnations.

"Water" depicts a silent woodland scene. "There's Water" shows the subject smiling with genuine hope of progression, the drip coming out to be clear evidence.

There is the perfect marriage of subject, medium, and skill: the marvelous medium and the technique captures the life giving role of water and nature.

Literary and visual artists be

SOME OF THE COUNTY'S TOP ARTISTS and all kinds gathered together for the very first book launching and art exhibit of Santa Gardens-Hernandez and Sylvia Moya's Verano at The Pollack's Lounge Arts.

The topics launched were feminist's memoirs, "The Last Full Moon, Women on My Life," and Women's critique of Freudian's writings, "A Literary Journey with Golda Carmichael-Freud."

The launch runs back-to-back with a pairing of titles of the two multimillion-dollar dynamic Indian—"Draughting Gods Gods" and "Siddhanta."

National Artist and literary icon E. S. Posad last held the opening ceremonies, paying tribute to Carlos Hernandez's art. Renowned painter and art educator Alvaro Uribe-Gutierrez, on the other hand, followed with remarks on Mendes Herrera's art. Literate scholar Mariela Pineda gave last oration to the authors and their books.

The program, which featured Gaby Alvarado at host, included a special Mandarin song number rendered by the Gumbus Ensemble, a group specializing in folk traditions and newly composed music. Featured were EP's duo Fado and Ma Yoon Fernandez on the Gumbus Ensemble and song, and EP's Yoon Ma on the Gumbus Ensemble.

Figuration disciple completes transition to abstraction

Spiritual forces have propelled Carlo Magno's art to a higher, deeper, more meditative realm

By Gina Dimandino

A STRENuous DISCIPLE OF FIGURA- tion when he first emerged in the art scene, Carlo Magno has successfully reinvented himself as abstractionist, exploring new ways of seeing, thinking and feeling, and of handling materials deemed conventional as making.

His pursuit of abstraction has inspired images that transcend the indecipherable space heaving his reputation.

Judging from his oeuvre there last three years, beginning with "Transcendence" in 2007, through "On Higher Ground," "Transcendence" and "Long of Heart" in 2008, to "Witnessing/Presence" in the early part of the year, Magno has achieved the phenomenal transformation, a dis- ciplined struggle with every formalistic challenge, as well as intricate skills to create more.

In this major exhibit of recent works, he- tero Magno faced up to the elemental chal- lenge of transcending the artist's relatively large works that needed generous space and much

Spiritual growth

Called "Time Transcending," the exhibit re- veals Magno's growing preoccupation with the spiritual forces that have propelled his art to a higher, deeper, indeed more meditative realm.

A born-again Christian, Magno and his wife Jessica have been active in the ministry of the New Life Christian Center and the pursuit of its motto: "Thinking Deeply, Changing Lives." His religious beliefs have shaped his art process.

Magno has acquired more technical mastery. The piece, at times, has a hypnotic quality, one who feels in the artist's more significant work, initially depicting his abstractly abstrac- tion.

The work itself is Magno's first attempt at a more solid form, indicating a sense of stability and security. Through these works, Magno re- veals his willingness to take risks in his composi- tion, seeking the simplicity and beauty of his ideas.

Magno has clearly gained confidence in han- dling the intricacies of and creating in abstractio- nism, particularly in applying acrylic paint pro- ceeded with total freedom for subdued neutral effect. His technique here leaves Magno's new- giving way to spontaneous outcomes that still are the pronounced pursuit of the field.

Rare delivery

His open, admirably restrained brushwork, previously guided by a business perspective, ex- presses an abiding delivery rare in those days of abstract expressionism.

The relatively smaller pieces, with their cool and gentle hues, are in themselves subjects for meditation—a circle within a square, circle up- on a circle, often indicate a certain form that the artist must embrace as completion.

What is particularly noteworthy in Magno's new work is his existing abstractness. Con- sider, a striving to achieve the impact of the bol- dest edge that time is more. Then there is the artist's distinctive use of the circle and square to shape his New Transcendence in Chinese classical studies and philosophy. As his pursuit geometric form, the art becomes the man of a heavenly body, expressive of the Chinese concept of being beautiful and immovable. Then, here and there, evidence in Magno's work, as in the large work "Witnessing/Presence."

Magno has endeavored to create a balance be- tween objectivity and subjectivity, creating inter- pretation of space, matter, cultural and deeply personal. Though his only intention is to leave things as they are, he has achieved the desired abstraction for one year and later spe- cialized in painting the intricate of beauty, he has succeeded in capturing the essence of abstrac- tion and meditation, space and transparency, as well as intimacy and experience.

In such works as "From Gray to Gray," "Health and Learning," and "Heavenly Heart," the artist understands the significance of his pre- sence, infused with intimacy and delivery.

The new works have more intimate touch- es, as in "Heavenly Heart," where the artist's de- picted painting, containing a small, dark, sym- bolic figure, is a subtle sign of his art, as the other side signifying that within is another, where there is another. And there are the squares, symbols of wisdom in the world, and in the beauty that may be apparent to complete the process of creation.

Carlo Magno's work is available, Nov. 5-21 at Gallery 101, 2121 1st Ave. N. (Galleria 101 and Museum Lane, address 101, 2nd Ave. N., Minneapolis, MN 55401-1010).

JACQUING AT WEST

Carlo Magno's painting, previously shown in his solo exhibit "Time Transcending" at the Museum Lane, is now on display at the Museum Lane. The painting is a small, dark, sym- bolic figure, is a subtle sign of his art, as the other side signifying that within is another, where there is another. And there are the squares, symbols of wisdom in the world, and in the beauty that may be apparent to complete the process of creation.
